

AEROMEXICO EXPANDS EUROPEAN NETWORK WITH NEW NONSTOP SERVICES FROM GUADALAJARA TO PARIS AND MEXICO CITY TO MILAN

- The new Guadalajara – Paris service will start operations on April 13, 2027 with three weekly flights.
- Mexico City–Milan flights confirmed to begin on March 28, 2027, operating four weekly flights.
- 2027 will mark Aeromexico's largest-ever European network, with more than 75 weekly flights in each direction during the summer season.

Mexico City, September 7, 2026.- With the purpose of strengthening connectivity between the main cities of Mexico and Europe, Aeromexico will start the operation of two new nonstop routes in 2027: Guadalajara (GDL) – Paris (CDG) and Mexico City (MEX) – Milan (MXP).

Growing our European Presence in Jalisco

The new Guadalajara – Paris service will start on April 13, 2027 operating three times per week. The route will become Aeromexico's second nonstop connection between Guadalajara and Europe, bringing the French capital closer than ever to Jalisco.

Paris is celebrated for its world-renowned art, gastronomy and timeless landmarks, while Jalisco is internationally recognized as the birthplace of mariachi and tequila. With this new flight, both regions will strengthen their existing ties to promote cultural exchange and create new business opportunities.

The new route will complement Aeromexico's existing daily Guadalajara–Madrid service, giving customers in western Mexico even more nonstop travel options to Europe.

With the addition of this route, Aeromexico will operate 13 weekly nonstop flights between Mexico and Paris next summer, with nonstop services also from Mexico City and Monterrey, marking the largest flight offering in the airline's history to the French capital.

A Second Destination in Italy

In addition to this launch, Aeromexico also confirms that its Mexico City – Milan route will start operations on March 28, 2027, with four weekly frequencies.

Milan will become Aeromexico's second destination in Italy, complementing the airline's existing service to Rome. Together, both routes will provide ten nonstop weekly flights between Mexico City and Italy.

Italy's financial and fashion capital, Milan is a global center for design, luxury, and innovation, as well as a gateway to the country's famous lakes and the Alps.

The new route will make it easier than ever for Mexican travelers to discover one of Europe's most dynamic destinations while welcoming more Italian visitors to experience Mexico's rich heritage, diverse culture and warm hospitality.

Aeromexico's Largest-Ever European Network

With the incorporation of these new routes, in 2027 Aeromexico will operate the most extensive European network in its history, serving seven destinations across 11 routes and offering more than 75 weekly flights in each direction during the summer season.

In addition, both routes offer more flexibility and convenient connectivity options to customers, through the SkyTeam alliance to more destinations in Europe, Africa, Middle East and Asia.

"Europe remains one of Aeroméxico's most important and successful markets. The addition of Guadalajara–Paris and Mexico City–Milan strengthens our network, offers customers more travel options and further reinforces our position as the leading carrier between Mexico and Europe." said Giancarlo Mulinelli, Senior Vice President of Global Sales, Aeromexico.

These new routes mark a milestone in Aeromexico's growth as Mexico's global airline, offering customers more travel options between Mexico and Europe than ever before, while upholding the airline's renowned standards of safety, on-time performance, and service.
