Mexico City, October 26, 2026.- Aeromexico and Delta Air Lines today announced three new nonstop routes connecting Mexico City International Airport (MEX) with John Wayne Airport, Orange County, California (SNA); Fort Lauderdale-Hollywood International Airport, Florida (FLL); and Portland International Airport, Oregon (PDX), further strengthening connectivity between Mexico and the United States under the airlines' Joint Cooperation Agreement.

Upon launch, Aeromexico will be the only airline offering nonstop service between Mexico City and each of the three destinations. The additions will expand the Aeromexico-Delta JCA network to 27 U.S. destinations from Mexico City.

"We are thrilled to announce three new routes to the United States, one of the most dynamic and strategically important markets for Mexico's international connectivity," said Giancarlo Mulinelli, Aeromexico's Senior Vice President of Global Sales. "The addition of these destinations will give our customers new options to enjoy the wide range of tourism experiences both countries have to offer, while opening new opportunities for business and trade."

Together, Orange County, Fort Lauderdale and Portland offer a diverse range of leisure experiences across the United States.
